War stories

In the '80s, Naveed Nour photographed the human impact of the Iran/Iraq war. The reaction to these pictures, which were displayed at Northeastern in 2005, encouraged the Watertown resident to establish "History Recalls," a forum for artists who have lived through war and documented the conflict and oppression. Photographs, drawings, paintings, and murals by Nasser Palangi, Rania Matar (her "Barbie Girl" is above), Farideh Zariv, and Nour are on view at Northeastern through Jan. 27. If you miss it here, the next stop is Australia. Today's hours are noon to 7. Free. Northeastern University, Curry Student Center Art Gallery, 360 Huntington Ave., 617-460-3784. historyrecalls.org [W]
